

Disclaimer and Notes from JSAE for Participants of EVTeC2023

1. Cancellation of Event

The event may be canceled without prior notice under unavoidable circumstances such as force majeure, natural disaster, incident, or pandemic, a request or order from the government or other administrative agency to refrain from holding events, or an insufficient number of participants.

2. Change in Program

The location or time of the presentation may be changed without prior notice under unavoidable circumstances such as force majeure, natural disaster, accident, or other situations hindering the use of the facilities, the delay of another presentation, or a change in presenter. Similarly, the presentation may be canceled without notice if the presenter fails to appear.

3. Restrictions on Filming and Recording

Participants are prohibited from filming the presentation, recording, or taking any other similar action. However, registered members of the press are permitted to record the presentation with the consent of the presenter. Register as a member of the press and obtain the consent of the presenter if you need to record the presentation for publicity or other purposes.

4. Order to Leave

A participant who fails to comply with the directives of the organizer, engages in prohibited actions, behaves in a manner that causes trouble to third parties or obstructs the smooth running of presentations or other activities, or who is deemed likely to do so, may be asked to leave.

5. Liability for Damages

The JSAE shall not be liable in any way, shape or form for damage incurred by the participant due to the cancellation of the event, a change in the program, the cancellation of the presentation, prohibited filming or recording, equipment failure, an order to leave, or any other factors. However, if the event is cancelled prior to its scheduled opening, participants who paid the admission fee in advance with their application form will be reimbursed.
